

“Finish Line”

Reflection:

I called it “finish line” because my 99-year old Grandmother is at the check out and seems so happy to have completed her shopping. She knows it is over. I also called it “finish line” because the glow coming from her face with the dark background creates a spiritual context. It is as if she lived her life the best she could, and is being welcomed into the after life she worked so hard for.
